

CMSE Speed Networking Session (4/28)

Learn more about a career in the military and aerospace industry by networking with experienced professionals.

Attending a virtual conference might be a new thing for some of us. Additionally, meeting new people virtually is challenging in itself! One of the many benefits of attending a conference is to meet and network with colleagues and industry professionals but doing so in a virtual conference is not as easy.

The Aerospace Career Development Club (ACDC) from The Aerospace Corporation is partnering with CMSE's student program to host a 45-minute-long virtual speed networking event! We'll randomly assign you to breakout rooms and break the ice with some conversation starters. We invite you to join us to mingle with fellow students and professional conference attendees and expand your network!
